We've a few more family photos for you today so let's get started. We shared our family photos from this year last week and I wanted to do more including some from our wedding and Christmas. I know that some of you might be thinking, I don't have family and my family sure isn't sharing any. And I know that many of you have had trouble getting your family to take pictures these last few years so I've decided to have more family pics shared. This week we have more pictures from the wedding. My sisters - happy in their first family photo together. My parents were the only people to have a picture on their wedding day so it was a special moment for them. This is our family. My parents are gone now and we don't have any more children to pass the wedding photos down to. I only have one sister and she's been married 2 years. It's sad that our family is changing and slowly disappearing. This is my parents' first family photo together after they married. I don't think they will ever forget this moment. There were so many beautiful dresses on the bride. This is my last family photo together with my parents. They are still here for us on the right side of the camera. I'm going to try to have more family photos shared for those of you who don't have any and also for those that have trouble getting their families to be in pictures. By the way, I appreciate your support on my new facebook page. I really had no idea what to expect. Everyone has been so welcoming and supportive.

Hopefully that will lead to more followers. I also have begun a weekly story of my life in life where I share some of my thoughts and feelings with you.

Q: How to check if an array is sorted without using a (euclidean) loop
I want to check if an array of positive integers is sorted or not. I don't want to use a (euclidean) loop for this.

A: You can use the subset sum problem approach to solve the sorting problem. For the sorting problem the 'traditional' solution is to convert to list of numbers and sort in a loop or a tail-recursive procedure. For the sorting problem the subset sum solution looks like this. For the subset sum problem each element is a number for which the question is given a subset sum. In your case you have

Boy loses leg to bite by pit bull at Long Beach dog park A boy visiting the Dog Park in Long Beach with his grandmother was mauled by a pit bull that took a chunk out of his leg, according to authorities. A boy visiting the Dog Park in Long Beach with his grandmother was mauled by a pit bull that took a chunk out of his leg, according to authorities. The 7-year-old boy was at Dog Park in the 600 block of South Pine Avenue on July 1 when he was bitten by a pit bull, Long Beach Animal Care and Control Officer Brandon Covarrubias said. "The dog got aggressive, bit the boy in the leg," Covarrubias said. The boy's grandmother chased the dog away, but the child was badly injured, Covarrubias said. “The boy was screaming and the grandmother ran over to him and started to try to stop the bleeding,” Covarrubias said. Paramedics took the boy to a hospital, where doctors amputated part of his right leg. The park is in an unincorporated area of Long Beach and is not regulated by the city. Animal control officers took the dog into custody and tested the dog for rabies but found no sign of the disease. The dog was up-to-date on vaccinations and the owners have a compliance card, which stipulates that the owners were responsible for the dog, Covarrubias said. “This dog was not fully trained,” Covarrubias said. The owners of the dog are upset about what happened and want to get the boy the best care possible, Covarrubias said. The owner said he was not watching the boy when the dog attacked him, Covarrubias said. “This dog was not restrained,” Covarrubias said. “The situation was very unfortunate.” The owner said it was not the first time the dog has attacked people. The owners of the dog can be cited for failing to properly control their dog, Covarrubias said. “It’s a terrible circumstance and the owner could potentially be held accountable,” Covarrubias said. } }
